

Nomination Policy & Selection Guidelines for Olympic Taekwondo

Update, Dec 8, 2023.

We are writing to you today to provide an important update to the Nomination Criteria for the Paris Olympic Games. We note that at clause 6.12 (a) these Criteria state:

2024 Defined G-ranked Open events:

2024 Designated Open events (To be published on the National Federation website at the URL: <https://austkd.com.au> and communicated through National Federation's Facebook page at the URL: <https://www.facebook.com/AUSTKD> and the National Federation's e-newsletters with a minimum of eight (8) weeks' notice).

Australian Taekwondo wishes to confirm the addition of the following two events to clause 6.12(a) of the Nomination Criteria for the Paris Olympic Games:

The 2024 Canada Open

To be held in Vancouver on the 10th February 2024.

We also provide strong direction that athletes seeking Olympic nomination should participate in these competitions in their respective Olympic Weight Category world division. For clarity this means:

- An athlete seeking Olympic nomination in the -49kg female Olympic division should compete in the -49kg female division at the above competitions, not in -46kg or -53kg. This equally applies to all other athletes competing in minus weight categories, notably;
- -57kg Olympic division athletes to compete in the -57kg division at these competitions, not -53kg or -62kg
- -67kg Olympic division athletes to compete in the -67kg division at these competitions, not -62kg or -73kg
- -58kg Olympic division athletes to compete in the -58kg division at these competitions, not -54kg or -63kg
- -68kg Olympic division athletes to compete in the -68kg division at these competitions, not -63kg or -74kg
- -80kg Olympic division athletes to compete in the -80kg division at these competitions, not -74kg or -87kg.
