

Who do I contact?

Reporting an integrity matter in taekwondo

Safe, fair and inclusive sport is for everybody. If you have a concern about behaviour in taekwondo, use this guide to find the right organisation to contact. If you are not sure, contact either one - they will make sure your concern reaches the right people.

If someone is in immediate danger, call 000. If you believe a child is at risk of harm, contact the police or your state or territory child protection agency.

Contact Sport Integrity Australia for:

- Concerns about the safety or wellbeing of a child or young person, including sexual misconduct, grooming, inappropriate touching, verbal or physical abuse, breaches of safe practices, or supplying alcohol or drugs to a minor
- Discrimination based on race, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or religion
- Suspected doping, or the improper use of drugs and medicine
- Competition manipulation (match-fixing) and sports wagering

Safe Sport Hotline 1800 161 361 (business hours, Monday to Friday)
Online sportintegrity.gov.au/contact-us/make-an-integrity-complaint-or-report
Email contactus@sportintegrity.gov.au

Sport Integrity Australia manages complaints under the National Integrity Framework policies independently. You can make a formal complaint, or an anonymous report.

Contact Australian Taekwondo for:

- Breaches of the Australian Taekwondo Codes of Conduct, including inappropriate conduct between adults
- Personal grievances
- Social media misconduct
- Privacy concerns
- Any other complaint or concern about taekwondo, a club or an event

Online austkd.com.au/club-hub/lodge-a-complaint
Email integrity@austkd.com.au